

JUSTICE (and humor) FOR ALL

(A monthly humorletter) March 2001

This humorletter contains both clean original humor as well as clean bits of humor that have found their way to me via Email. Many times the original author is unknown so if you read something here that you find very funny it's OK to assume that I wrote it.

You have my permission to reproduce and distribute any items you'd like as well as the entire humor letter just so long as you are doing it for free and not for profit.- Enjoy!

Daffynitions

Abdicate (v.), to give up all hope of ever having a flat stomach.

Negligent (adj.), describes a condition, in which you absentmindedly answer the door in your nightie.

Esplanade (v.), to attempt an explanation while drunk.

Flabbergasted (adj.), appalled over how much weight you have gained.

Jeff will be honored by the National Speakers Association

This summer I will be receiving my Certified Speaking Professional designation (CSP) at the National Speakers Association's convention in Dallas, TX.

The CSP designation is the speaking industry's international measure of professional platform/speaking skill.

The "CSP" following a speaker's name, indicates a competent speaking professional with proven experience who understands what is required and knows how to deliver client satisfaction.

Fewer than 7% of the 5,000 speakers who belong to the International Federation for Professional Speakers hold this professional designation.

A huge thanks to my hundreds of clients who helped me earn it.

Humor and Training Tip #41

Never underestimate the power of a smile, especially at the beginning of your presentation. The audience forms an opinion about you in the first 15-30 seconds, then spends the rest of the time looking for things to justify their opinion.

In one study 100% of the audience rated the speakers who smiled as better, more likeable and more knowledgeable than the speakers who were instructed not to smile, even after they told the audience how the experiment was set up! First impressions do matter...a lot!

Humor Tip #39

When consulting with my corporate clients who have committed to making their company a great place to work, my first question is, "How great? To what degree?"

Do you want your employees to say, "You won't believe what the company did..."

This year..."

This quarter..."

This month..."

This week..." or

You'll never guess what happened today!"

The next question is, "What if?" What if your employees couldn't wait until the weekend was over so they could get back to work? What would that look like? How can we make that happen?

It's not as hard as you may think. Give me a call and let's talk about how humor can raise your bottomline.

The sales have been great and reviews are even better!

Send $10 + $2.50 shipping today and see why it sold out within minutes at the Georgia Speakers Association's last meeting.

You'll never speak the same again!
