Jeff Justice is serious about Humor

Jeff Justice mixes quick, clean humor and magical entertainment while sharing a highly-targeted message.

Jeff was destined to become a humorist. At an early age he discovered that if he could make his older brothers laugh they would stop giving him "Noogies". Thus, his first realization in humor: You can't laugh and be angry at the same time.

He spent fourteen years headlining the top comedy clubs across the US and appearing on many national TV shows. For the past twenty eight years his focus had been on teaching business people how to use humor effectively in their presentations and how to reduce stress in both their business and personal lives.

Jeff is a Certified Speaking Professional (CSP) the highest earned designation awarded by the National Speaker's Association. Less than seven percent of speakers in the world have achieved this level of excellence. His innovative programs on appropriate humor in the workplace have been featured on CNN, CNBC as well as in Time Magazine, Newsweek, Atlanta Journal Constitution, and the Atlanta Business Chronicle.

Today, Fortune 500 companies across the country call on Jeff's caring brand of "applied humor" to maximize their human resource: engaging their employees, improving performance, and developing leaders.
